the classic work of christian theology which seeks to present the christian faith in its entirety schleiermacher was equally at home in the theological systems of protestant orthodoxy and the new world of thought shaped by the historical and natural sciences and german philosophy he follows a confident course through the entire range of themes in dogmatics but leaves both the dogmatic task and the individual themes transformed by a powerful and original mind a new foreword by b a gerrish summarises the dogmatic goals of the christian faith and corrects some common misreadings of his work this is a print on demand book and is therefore non returnable in today s secular world the christian faith is viewed as only one aspect of what could be called religious life acknowledging this hendrikus berkhof begins this thought provoking study with a sketch of religion and faith in general before narrowing it down to a discussion of the specific place of christian faith beginning with the whole of reality makes it possible to use religion as the basis from which to acquire an understanding of the relevance of the christian faith for that total reality thus a study of christian faith can answer questions that deal with the place of humanity in the cosmos the meaning of life and existence the meaning of freedom and of death berkhof defines religion as the relation to the absolute faith is one step beyond religion as it is the establishment of god s relationship to his people christian faith builds on old testament faith because the promises of the old testament are accepted as being fulfilled in the ministry suffering death and resurrection of jesus christ for berkhof the study of christian faith is a systematic examination of the content of the relationship which god in christ has entered into with us because the study of the faith is systematic there must be an order to it this order varies from theologian to theologian for berkhof the starting point is revelation the sources and norms for our knowledge of god this leads to a discussion of god creation of the world and of human beings israel the person and work of christ the church and finally the renewal of the world and of humanity throughout the book berkhof comments on and often takes issue with systematic theologians of the past written for both the layperson and the scholar the text is interspersed with excurses set off in smaller type than the main text that cover specific subjects more thoroughly citing sources controversies and the like which will be of particular interest to theologians and students this newly revised edition a translation of the dutch fifth edition takes into account developments in dogmatics in the thirteen years since berkhof prepared the first edition of christian faith berkhof s aim throughout is to present his understanding of the truth of god but as he writes in his preface the study of the faith is not something to learn so much as something to do and practice a book can do no more than help us to get started and stimulate us to try to do it on our own this book like the earlier edition admirably succeeds in meeting that goal in one systematic volume james montgomery boice provides a readable overview of christian theology with scholarly rigor and a pastor s heart boice carefully opens the topics of the nature of god the person and work of christ the work of the holy spirit in justification and sanctification and ecclesiology and eschatology this updated edition includes a foreword by philip ryken and a section by section study guide this book enters a lively discussion about religious faith and higher education in america that has been going on for a decade or more during this time many scholars have joined the debate about how best to understand the role of faith in the academy at large and in the special arena of church related christian higher education the notion of faith informed scholarship has of course figured prominently in this conversation but argue douglas and rhonda jacobson the idea of christian scholarship itself has been remarkably under discussed most of the literature has assumed a definition of christian scholarship that is reformed and evangelical in orientation a model associated with the phrase the integration of faith and learning the authors offer a new definition and analysis of christian scholarship that respects the insights of different christian traditions e g catholic lutheran anabaptist wesleyan pentecostal and that applies to the arts and to professional studies as much as it does to the humanities and the natural and social sciences the book itself is organized as a conversation five chapters by the jacobsons alternate with four contributed essays that sharpen illustrate or complicate the material in the preceding chapters the goal is both to map the complex terrain of christian scholarship as it actually exists and to help foster better connections between christian scholars of differing persuasions and between christians and the academy as a whole
